9.Methodical recommendations for independent work of students

Independent work is an important element of the curriculum. In modern conditions, when education acquires the character of a continuous process, one of the important tasks of educational institutions is teaching the skills of independent work.

Within the framework of the discipline "Foreign language" types of independent work are organized according to the principle "from simple to complex".

In the first semester, the task of independent work is to teach students how to work with foreign-language sites: get acquainted with the names of typical sections of websites, learn how to find the information requested by the teacher and make a brief note on the main points. The result of the work is presented in the form of a presentation.

In the second semester, the task of this type of activity is to develop students' critical thinking. As a task for independent work, students are invited to familiarize themselves with several sources and, having critically comprehended them, write an essay expressing their thoughts. Further, it is planned to hold a round table on the general issues of all essays in order to develop the skills of speaking to an audience in a foreign language.

In the third semester, the main goal is the formation and development of group work skills. This involves the development of interpersonal and intercultural interaction skills, the ability to plan, distribute tasks and keep a schedule for completing tasks, and critical thinking skills when evaluating the work of their teammates. Report form on independent work for the 3rd semester - participation in group debates. As a task for independent work, students are invited to take part in debates on the proposed professional topics. In groups of two, students should familiarize themselves with the literature on the problem posed and prepare a reasoned presentation in defense of their point of view. During this type of work, those students who do not directly participate in the debate act as a jury, which must ask questions to the participants and evaluate their performance according to a number of parameters.

In the fourth semester, the task of independent work is to develop the skills of working with foreign-language sites and the skills of a creative approach to solving the problem. The result of the work is presented in the form of an individual essay and a group presentation. The task of this type of activity is the development of students' critical thinking. As an independent work, students should prepare in groups a presentation of the business plan of their future company according to the proposed structure, which allows students to demonstrate the skills and abilities acquired during the entire course of study, namely: the ability to speak publicly, use the vocabulary of professional and business communication, describe schedules, adequately respond and answer the questions asked.

All types of independent work within the framework of the "Foreign Language" course are aimed at developing group work skills, which in turn is associated with the development of interpersonal and intercultural interaction skills, the ability to plan, distribute tasks and follow the schedule of tasks, critical thinking skills when evaluating the work of their teammates and other teams.

All types of independent work are directly related to the use of electronic resources or computer software, which also contributes to the development of students' professional skills necessary for their future professional activities.

10. Guidelines for the teacher

"Foreign language" is one of the basic disciplines of any curriculum. In the modern world, without knowledge of a foreign language, it is impossible to talk about the comprehensive training of future engineers. The main course of this program is designed for students who have previously studied English. The leading goal of this course is the development of students' foreign language professional and communicative competence in everyday and professional communication. Since in the educational space the discipline "Foreign language" belongs to the block of humanitarian disciplines, it is important in shaping the socio-cultural image of a modern competitive specialist.

The structure of the course is made taking into account the sequential movement from simple to complex, from general vocabulary and more professionally oriented, which allows for a consistent transition from a common language to a general professional one. This work program is based on a combination of such teaching principles as linearity and modularity, fundamentality and pragmatism, focus on the personality of the student.

The course consists of two blocks: practical exercises and independent work of students, which takes up a significant part of the teaching hours. Practical classes should be structured in such a way that the lexical and grammatical material studied and consolidated during the exercises must necessarily find a way out in the production of students' own statements in oral and written speech. It is for this purpose that each substantive section of the discipline includes parts "Speaking" and "Writing", the purpose of which is to introduce and consolidate a certain thematic block of lexical and grammatical structures and create small oral and written messages on a given topic in accordance with what is currently being studied. moment section.

The purpose of independent work of students is, first of all, the development of skills necessary for further professional life, such as self-study and self-development skills throughout life, as well as group work skills.

Successful mastering of the developed program in a foreign language should form students' knowledge of general professional vocabulary, the ability to prepare presentations and write essays, independent work skills in order to search and analyze the required information, thereby preparing a solid foundation for mastering professional foreign language terminology and developing foreign language professional communication skills. in the next semesters.

5. Write a brief summary (essay) of the text "The Purpose of organization."

An organization with a clear purpose or mission is one that is easy to understand and manage. A common purpose unifies employees and helps them understand the organization's direction. Any employee working at the NASA Space Center in the 1960s knew that that organization's common purpose was to put a man on the moon. Included with the common purpose would be the business and company strategy, mission statement, company values, and the organization's short- and long-term objectives. The role of communicating all of these components most likely falls to managers through the company.

Coordinated Effort

Arguably, a manager's most important responsibility is to coordinate the effort of work in a way that maximizes resources with the common purpose in mind. Managers will need to leverage the employees' skill sets, experience, and personalities in a way that consistently adds value. Managers must also take into account employees' preferences as they relate to job satisfaction and engagement.

Specialization and the Division of Labor

Early in the twentieth century, every employee on the Ford Motor Company assembly line had a specific, repetitive task. For instance, one person would install the wheels on the left side of the car, and another employee only installed the front bumper. By breaking the whole job down to specific standardized tasks and repeating them over and over, Ford could produce one car every ten seconds.

Ford, and many other factories, demonstrated that specialization made work more efficient. Management saw this as the most efficient use of the relative skills of its employees. Employee skills at performing a task improve through repetition. Less time is spent changing tasks, in putting away tools from a prior task and getting the necessary tools for the next task. A second, and equally important, efficiency with specialization is the ease and low cost of finding and training people to do specific and repetitive tasks.

Topic 8: Rules from the Recruitment Insiders one.Fill in the gaps with the right form of the verb: Passive Voice

Establish a Defined Interview Process. Everyone in the company must understand the process and _____ (be hold) accountable for their piece of it. Clear lines of ownership and buy-in mean the process flows smoothly.

Interview well. Train your employees on how to properly conduct an interview. Don't let multiple people ask the same questions over and over again. Ask good behavioral questions. Make the candidate think and really dig in. Not only will you learn more about them, but they _____ (be impress).

Use Technology Well. This is where most employers first fall short. You have technology in place for a reason - to make your job easier. Why not make it work for your candidates too? Don't ask them to upload a resume and then manually enter information into an application. Duplication is frustrating and time-consuming. Streamline your processes with a goal to be easy to work with. You could lose good people before you even get to talk to them.

Topic 9. Public Management

one.Fill in the gaps with the right verb in the right form: Passive voice

*The Grand Strategy.*Companies choose a grand strategy in response to the first question they should ask themselves: does the firm want to grow, strive for stability, or take a defensive position in the marketplace? Often, the choice of a grand strategy _____ (be base) on conditions in the business environment because firms generally want to grow unless something (like a recession) makes that difficult. Note that a grand strategy and a corporate strategy can overlap significantly.

Planning Firm Actions to Implement Strategies.

When managers create strategies, they are making plans for how their firm will compete in the marketplace and what actions the firm will have to undertake to compete. A plan is a decision to carry out a particular action in order to achieve a specific goal. A plan includes decisions about when and how actions should _____ (be accomplish) and what resources _____ (will be require) to complete the actions. Because planning is one of the basic functions of management, a good manager should have good goal-setting skills, technical knowledge about the tasks necessary to reach goals, time-management skills, and the organizational skills required to arrange company resources to be available to complete the planned tasks. Planning is a combination of deciding what needs _____ (to be do), figuring out how to do it,

2. Give the definition for each word combination

1. recruitment - recruitment
2. bound ahead - move faster
3. to hire - hire
4. accountable - with responsibility
5. ownership - responsibility,
6. buy-in - interest, involvement

3.Put the verbs in brackets in the correct form in Present Simple Passive Voice.
Write the negative form in full: do not write, is not given. Write two forms together with a comma: is written, are sold.

1. English (to speak) in all parts of the world.
2. The students (to ask) a lot of questions.
4. He (to see) often here.
5. Only two cars (to make) in France.
6. I (not/to help) with my work.
7. Lectures (not/to attend) by all students.
8. Much time (to give) to the study of the new methods of work.
9. Coffee (not/to produce) in England.
10. Every Sunday we (to show) a new film.
11. The newspapers (to bring) in the morning.

4. Management Skills Application. (Analytical Skills).

Assume that you have been hired by a local small business consulting firm. You have been asked by your boss to review a proposal from a client who is considering opening a new Pilates and yoga studio in a trendy part of town. Because you know SWOT analysis, you have been asked to group the following attributes about the proposed business into a SWOT analysis:

a. The proposed location is on the same street corner as the main subway line station and three blocks from a ferry terminal that commuters use go to work.

b. The proposed location has a vestibule and a new HVAC system.

c. The street that the location is situated on has many small shops, restaurants, and bars and is a popular gathering place.

d. There are many historic structures that are in need of updates, but some owners are reluctant to invest in these aging structures.

e. The area has become gentrified over the past decade, and there is more disposable income than in the past.

f. In addition to the young professionals, a large number of 55 and over retirees who are now empty nesters have been moving into the neighborhood.

g. With the young professionals and empty nesters, this area has one of the lowest birth rates in the nation.

h. The two-year lease is affordable for the business plan, but there is no guarantee of renewal after the term.

i. There is a rumor of a spin studio opening two blocks away.

j. The building has been updated with ramps and restrooms to accommodate disabled patrons. k. The local paper has interviewed the client and will be running a "Pilates Craze" feature in the upcoming weekend newspaper.

!!! What is a SWOT analysis, and what can it reveal about a firm? SWOT is a traditional analytical tool that identifies a firm's strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, and threats (SWOT is an acronym of these four factors). It is useful for conducting a quick look at the internal capabilities (strengths and weaknesses) and external events and situations

(opportunities and threats) a firm is facing. SWOT is not a comprehensive analytical tool, because the four categories for analysis are too broad and will not necessarily identify all of the factors important to a firm's success that a more thorough analysis would

2. What is culture, and how can culture be understood through Hofstede's cultural framework? 3. How are regions of the world categorized using the GLOBE framework, and how does this categorization enhance understanding of cross-cultural leadership?
4. Why is an understanding of cultural stereotyping important, and what can students do to prepare for cultural stereotyping by looking at social institutions?
5. What steps can you undertake to be better prepared for cross-cultural assignments?
6. What are the main strategies that companies can use to go international?
7. Why might it be necessary for a company to go international, and how might it accomplish this goal?

Topic 11. Things you need to know something about.

one. Fill in the gaps with the right form of the verb: Infinitive

The Internet Thanks to the pervasiveness of the Internet today, any company in the world can _____ (sell) its products to anyone in the world. In fact, the developments in information technology and the reduction in costs of technological equipment mean that any multinational can _____ (reach) anyone in the world. Social media, such as Twitter and Facebook, also provide a means for multinationals _____ (build) relationships with customers worldwide. Data also suggests that even countries that previously had little access to the Internet are now experiencing tremendous growth.

E-commerce doesn't necessarily have to _____ (be) between companies and individual customers. In fact, there are many other forms of e-commerce, such as business-to-consumer (eg, eBay), business-to-business (B2B, where companies sell to each other), consumer-to-business (C2B, where consumers can sell to businesses), and consumer-to-consumer (C2C, where consumers can sell to other consumers). These forms of e-commerce are all contributing to making the global business world more interconnected. It is critical for multinationals to appreciate the importance of the Internet. Not only can companies reach new consumers, but they can also _____ (improve) their business models. Additionally, the Internet provides the opportunity to companies _____ (build_ relationships with consumers worldwide.

2. Compile the essay on a topic of: What is culture, and how can culture be understood through Hofstede's cultural framework?

As the business world becomes more global, employees will likely face someone from another country at some point in their careers, companies will negotiate with companies from other countries, and even employees of domestic companies will likely encounter someone from another country. Furthermore, trends suggest that immigration, the movement of people from their home country to other countries, will continue to grow worldwide, a process that will contribute to making companies' workforces increasingly diverse. Additionally, many multinational companies rely on expatriates to run their local operations. An expatriate is a foreign employee who moves to and works in another country for an extended period of time. All of these trends mean that during your career you are likely to encounter someone from a different culture and that the potential for cross-cultural tensions is high. It is therefore important for any international management student to understand culture to better prepare for dealing with such tensions.

Topic 12. 'The impact of technology on professional development'

1. Fill in the gaps with the right form of the verb: Infinitive, Gerund, Passive voice, Participle I&II
What do we mean by management of technology and innovation (MTI), and why is it crucial?

Management of technology and innovation is critical to the organization. Because of innovations and new technologies, we _____ (have historically see) the emergence of innovative organizational structures and new ways of _____ (perform) work. For example, the Industrial Revolution ushered in the functional structure for organizations. As business moved from small craft businesses like blacksmiths to railroads, there was a need _____ (introduce) a more complex business structure. Today, we see the innovations in information technology _____ (change) structures to more network based with people _____ (be able to work) remotely. The changes in structure are innovations in the technology of how work _____ (be accomplish); the innovations brought on by the invention of new products influence the technology we use and how we use it.

Technology can _____ (be defined) in a number of ways. The basic purpose of a system (such as an organization) is to convert inputs into outputs. Therefore, we will define organizational technology as the processes within the organization that help _____ (convert) inputs into outputs as well as the _____ (support) evaluation and control mechanisms. The management of technology involves _____ (the plan), implementation, evaluation, and control of the organization's resources and capabilities in order to create value and competitive advantage.

2. Match the words with their definitions.

one	technology strategy	—the process of taking an innovation or technology and trying to build more value by looking for ways to use the technology in different markets and places.
2	technology forecasting	—the use of portfolio techniques in development and use of technology enhances the potential value of technologies being developed and the technologies that are currently part of a firm's portfolio. Disney was a leading producer of animated films. However, Disney did not stop there—the portfolio of characters in the films are now marketed as products and displayed in Disney theme parks, and Disney very carefully manages the availability of the animated films.

3	technology roadmapping	—the use of tools to study the environment for potential technological changes that can both positively and negatively affect the firm's value proposition. Digitization of a variety of products such as watches and cameras provided great opportunities for some firms and caused others to go bankrupt. Forecasting (or at least keeping an eye on the changes in technology) is very important in management of technology four	Technology project portfolio	—the logic of how technology will be used and what role technology will have in the organization. For example, will innovation (first-to-market strategies dominate) be the focus, or will the firm want to do things better to obtain market share and value (let others take the initial risks)?

3.Write an essay in about 150 words on the following topic:
Innovation activities are an important subset of technology activities.

Innovation includes "newness" in the development and used of products and/or processes within a firm and within an industry. Invention, new product development, and process-improvement methods are all examples of innovation. Management of innovation includes both change management and managing organizational processes that encourage innovation. The management of innovation is more than just planning new products, services, brand extensions, or technology inventions—it is about imagining, mobilizing, and competing in new ways. For the organization, innovation management involves setting up systems and processes that allow newness that adds value to emerge. Some firms, like Google and 3M, give some employees time during the workweek to work on their own ideas with the hope of sparking new ideas that will add value. Google News and 3M Post-it Notes are products that emerged from this practice. In order to manage innovation processes successfully, the firm must undertake several activities (these can involve the study of technologies currently in use).

4. Round table (debate) 'The impact of technology on professional development'
- ✓ What do we mean by management of technology and innovation (MTI), and why is it crucial?
- ✓ How do organizations develop technology and innovation?
- ✓ What are external sources of technology and innovation development, and when are they best used?
- ✓ What are internal sources of technology and innovation development, and when are they best used?

Self-Assessment Tools: Debating on the topic "The modern challenges in science and technology"

Options for topics depending on the specialty of students:
1. You are a manager of a team that is taking a long time to move through the Storming stage. There are two individuals on the team that seem to be unproductive when dealing with conflict and are holding the team back. What would you do to help the team move through conflict management and begin Norming and Performing?
2. One of your direct reports on your team is very focused on his own personal development. He is a strong employee individually, but hasn't had as much experience working in a team environment on a project. He wants to do well, but isn't exactly sure how to work within this context. How would you instruct him?
3. You are leading a team responsible for a very important strategic initiative at your company. You have launched the project, and your team is very motivated and excited to move forward. You have the sense, however, that your sponsor and some other stakeholders are not fully engaged. What do you do to engage them?

1. The emergence of a more knowledge- and information-based global economy means that services will become more critical and service industries will continue to grow at a faster pace than product-based industries.
2. The abilities of artificial intelligence in HRM.
3. The abilities of artificial intelligence in management information systems.
4. How and why do entrepreneurs develop MTI skills?
5. No matter what method is used, what skills do you need to successfully manage technology and innovation?
6. How do you look into the future to keep pace?

Debate Algorithm

1 lesson: Introduction to the debate format. Repetition of vocabulary to express one's opinion, agreement or disagreement.

Example: Conducting debates on the topic "In the contemporary global society the culture in which individuals are socialized have little influence on the way they communicate".

2 lesson: An introduction to the topic of future debate through a proposed problematic text on a chosen topic. The distribution of students into groups of 3-4 people (should get 4 groups of participants).

Homework: write a short written report on the topic of the debate. Structure of the report: statement of the problem, its importance and relevance; the current state of affairs in the field; your proposal for solving the problem; the merits of the proposed solution.

3 lesson: students from each group introduce the other participants in the debate to the developed solution in a short form (1-3 sentences). The format of the debate and the use of vocabulary to express one's opinion and disagree with the opponent's opinion are being worked out.

Homework: prepare for the debate and draft questions for your opponents.

4 lesson: holding a debate. Debates are held among two groups. The participants of the remaining two groups play the role of a jury and evaluate the performance of the speakers according to the parameters: the most convincing arguments, emotionally expressive behavior, novelty of the solution to the problem, correct and interesting questions, convincing answers to the questions asked. The winning team is determined by the number of points scored.
